

Are you new to UQ Economics?

We've put together our top recommendations for starting your economics program with us.

Take a look at the checklist below and step through the tasks that appeal to you (keeping in mind that there is no correct order).

Bookmark eCorner

eCorner is your online bulletin board full of the latest job opportunities, podcasts, events, news and more – just for current UQ economics students.

Look out for Currency

As you continue with UQ, we'll be in touch regularly via our economics student communications email, Currency. Look out for your copy via your student email.

Join a society

At UQ, there are three economics societies you can join, each boasting an inclusive and like-minded community to connect with.

Find a mate!

BEL Buddies are Business, Economics and Law students who contribute to the BEL community in many positive ways. You would have met a number of BEL Buddies at Orientation week, so why not catch up for coffee!?

Discover Statecraft

Statecraft is the flagship print and digital publication of the UQPPEs (UQ Politics, Philosophy and Economics Society). Student-owned and operated, Statecraft boasts articles covering current affairs, political theory and everyday observations – all through the eyes of young economists.

Become familiar with BEL Careers and Employability

As an economics student, you are part of the Faculty of Business, Economics and Law (BEL for short). As a Faculty, we are lucky enough to have a dedicated team of Careers Advisers here to help you with all things careers. Discover more online.

Meet your SSLC

The Economics Student-Staff Liaison Committee (SSLC) represents the needs of students. Comprised of volunteers, the committee provides a channel where fellow students can raise important issues, voice concerns or make suggestions.

Learn with PASS

Peer Assisted Study Sessions (PASS) are highly interactive study sessions hosted by two student leaders for some of UQ's fundamental economics courses. These courses include ECON1010, ECON1020, ECON1310 and ECON1050. Free to attend, they're perfect for some extra support.
