

Asia Pacific Productivity Conference (APPC)

Call for Abstracts

The Local Organizing Committee of the Asia Pacific Productivity Conference (APPC) is pleased to invite submissions of abstracts or papers for presentation. APPC brings together scholars, practitioners, and policymakers working on productivity, efficiency, and performance analysis across the Asia-Pacific region and beyond.

The conference will be held in the beautiful St Lucia campus of The University of Queensland, Brisbane, Australia, 26-28 of November 2025.

Conference Focus

The APPC serves as a platform for the presentation and discussion of methodological advances, empirical studies, and policy-oriented research related to productivity and efficiency analysis. We welcome papers from a wide range of fields, including (but not limited to):

- Productivity and efficiency measurement
- Frontier estimation methods (DEA, SFA, and related techniques)
- Environmental and energy efficiency
- Agricultural, health, and education productivity
- Innovation and productivity
- Public sector performance
- Regional and international productivity comparisons
